

Always wanted to be a pirate?

Dear employee,

All too often we hear about excuses for not wearing your personal protective equipment: too warm, too cold, it itches or hinders you, makes you look like a fool, etc.

Not using your personal protective equipment is a choice you are free to make , but are you considering the consequences of your choice too?

Take eye protection for example. Quickly welding a tiny forgotten piece without a welding helmet, sawing a piece of wood with your eyes almost closed because you don't have your glasses to hand, throwing a piece of glass into a container ... all this is done in a flash without thinking of the possible consequences for your eyes.

The probability of flying particles, projectiles or hazardous substances injuring your eyes may seem slight, but in the workplace there is always that risk. It is not just a choice between whether or not to wear face protection, but rather a choice between accepting face protection and accepting the consequences. If you look at it this way, you probably won't need to think very long.

But the choice ... is up to you!

Kind regards,

The board
